FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dorothy Lehman Hershberger '50
Director of Alumni Relations

As this college year comes to a close and I reflect over our accomplishments, many feelings come into focus: the satisfaction and happy-tired feeling that comes with the completion of a successful alumni program or event; the anticipation of planning a new year with ideas for more alumni involvement; and the desire to create more open communication between the college and its alumni.

This past year has been a very good one. Even though it had its trials, we feel a tremendous satisfaction in the number of successful activities, especially new programs that grew out of our own ideas.

The Alumni Council has been planning ways to exert its leadership and direct alumni volunteers into ever more productive avenues. We recognize the wealth of human resources available among our alumni and the great potential that they represent. The Advancement Associates (January 1984 Bulletin) is designed specifically to open more avenues of participation to them.

Marjorie J. Love '80 joined the staff to bring enthusiasm and the fresh perspective of a recent graduate. Her ideas and energy have already made a difference in our approach, especially with younger alumni.

The extern program was a very positive experience for the nine students and alumni who participated. At a debriefing session, many positive reflections and a desire to increase participation were expressed. This program, conducted in cooperation with the Career Planning and Placement Office, holds enormous promise as a means of involving alumni in a program that directly benefits our students.

Alumni travel provides economical getaways for you to enjoy the company of family and old friends; we hope that the changes we are making in travel programming will attract an increasingly broad range of alumni.

Regional alumni events are always a special experience for us. The opportunity to meet alumni from LaJolla, Calif. to South Jersey; to see the Juniata spirit alive and well in Denver and Central Pennsylvania; to have a sense of what a Juniata education has done for so many of you were rewarding and worth all the time and effort put into these gatherings. An alumni madrigal dinner at Christmas time was a new innovation for Huntingdon area alumni and an enjoyable way to bring in the holiday season on the campus.

Reunion Weekend showed a few new wrinkles this year. We want to have even more of you return next year to sense the beauty, strength, and vitality on campus today. Along with Homecoming, Reunion Weekend is a great opportunity for you to "come home" and renew acquaintances.

My sincere gratitude goes to all of you who gave time, talents and financial support to your alma mater this year. As we look forward to an even better year in 1984-85, our desire is for better programming, increased participation, more open communication, and better use of your time and skills. Please join the ranks. Your involvement and support are the backbone of Juniata.

Have a super summer and fall.

Health and Physical Fitness . . . . . . A Prescription for Life

By Robert W. Ash

Most people in the United States have at least a vague notion that exercise and physical fitness are good for the human body, but they probably don't realize just how good it can be. We now have scientific proof that regular physical training can increase the efficiency of the heart and lungs; reduce the risk of heart attacks; help reduce weight and improve muscle tone; and improve circulation while reducing blood pressure.

Furthermore, evidence indicates that exercise can help people to relax, sleep better, cut down on smoking, tolerate stress better and even develop a more positive self-image that would be impossible without regular exercise. (For the best scientific analysis of exercise benefits and for the best catalogue of workouts, see Dr. Kenneth Cooper's well-known bestselling paperback, Aerobics [Bantam Books].)

Becoming aware of the benefits of physical training, however, is only the first, and easiest part of the job. Actually accomplishing them involves a commitment that all too few people ultimately realize. The point is, that in order for exercise to provide the body with all those positive effects, it needs to be done regularly for a substantial length of time, hopefully until it becomes a habit that will be maintained for a lifetime.

When physical educators talk about regular activity like this, most people envision a daily set of exercises; a morning jog; a noon-time swim — a pattern — something that has to be done even though it's really a painful drudgery. All too often, that exercise routine becomes a passing fancy, starting out as a New Year's resolution and dying out after a few days or weeks of increasingly less motivated activity. It's a familiar pattern whose proof is that brand new pair of running shoes that have gotten more wear and tear mowing the lawn than circling the track, or that new tennis racquet with the fancy cover that's gathering dust in the closet.

What's the solution? First of all, there is no set formula, especially for groups of people but also for individuals. Seeking a printed schedule or trying to follow an exercise program step-by-step as if it were a Betty Crocker recipe almost never works. No effective exercise program will ever be the same for any two people except in one very important respect: if it's working, then it has become a regular part of the person's life, just like eating, sleeping, going to work, and paying the bills. That's not to say this "exercise" is necessarily the same type of workout done at the same time of day, seven days a week, all year long. In fact, it could be argued that compulsive, addictive behavior with regard to exercise can be counter-productive, leading to stress, injury and other problems that exercise is designed to alleviate. Just as we don't go to work seven days a week and we don't eat the same food for dinner every night, exercise needs to be kept fresh, fun and varied — while still maintaining a place in our lives where it is a regular and frequent priority.

This, then, is the bottom line — it doesn't matter so much what the activity is, but how often a person is active. For some people, a routine of walking, jogging or swimming is ideal because it is efficient, needs little or no equipment and can be done alone. But for others (and I suspect this is the larger group), that routine simply doesn't last, and for this group a variety of exercise and activities, including games and competitive sports, could be the answer. In fact, many people find that the best way to get the health benefits from exercise is to increase their involvement in activities where exercise is the by-product, rather than the purpose, of the endeavor.

A round of golf (on foot, of course); a racquetball match; or a birdwatching hike through the woods each provides healthful exercise, yet the motivation for each activity is more likely to be the contest — challenging par; competing against an opponent; or testing wits with nature — more so than the exercise itself. And, instead of dreading this type of “workout,” the event often is eagerly anticipated.

“... exercise ... needs to be done regularly for a substantial length of time, hopefully until it becomes a habit that will be maintained for a lifetime.”

If exercise and working out seem to exact a higher price than is reasonable for the benefits they provide, the solution may be to expand horizons, take on new challenges, and add some variety to the routine. The concept of exercise and physical activity needs to be incorporated into life in as many ways as possible.

Eventually, it might even become fun to be so remarkably good to your body. □

Diet and Health

By Bradley G. Small

Those who claim that “we are what we eat” may be overstating the significance of our eating habits, but it is fair to say that there is a cause and effect relationship between what we eat and our health status.

Body weight may be the single most important issue.

Weight fluctuation is dictated by a very simple principle. Body weight and its vacillation is determined by the relationship between the number of calories (kilocalories) ingested in comparison to the number of calories metabolized to release energy for daily activities.

The quantity of ingested calories is determined by the caloric value and the quantity of the food we eat. The caloric expenditure is determined by an individual's basal metabolic rate (which is genetically determined) as well as the intensity and duration of physical activity. For example: a person who wants to ingest approximately 2,000 calories per day may do so by eating one Big MAC, one order of french fries, an apple pie, two alcoholic drinks and a couple of snacks (i.e.: candy bars), or the 2,000 calories may come from a bowl of corn flakes with skim milk, whole wheat toast, two pieces of chicken, one apple, iced tea, spaghetti with meat balls, green beans, two slices of whole wheat bread, a piece of cherry pie with ice cream, lemonade, and still be able to consume a couple of snacks before the 2,000 calorie limit is reached. In terms of caloric expenditure, a person weighing 150 lbs. walking at a casual pace for 30 minutes utilizes 160 calories, while running at a rate of seven minutes per mile for 30 minutes metabolizes 468 calories.

Simply stated, if weight loss is desired, a person must expend more calories through daily living than are ingested; the converse is also true for the person who wishes to gain weight. If a person prefers to maintain his/her present weight, an equitable balance between the two must be achieved.

Life insurance companies have determined that the average American female is 15-30 pounds overweight, while her male counterpart is 20-30 pounds overweight. An individual carrying 10 percent more than the recommended weight is considered to be overweight, and an individual carrying 20 percent more than the recommended weight is considered obese. These recommended standards are determined by the statistical analyses of the weights of those people who live the longest in our country.

Studies show that diseases of the heart account for 38.6 percent of all deaths in the U.S., and more than four million Americans now have cardiac disabilities. It is theorized by most medical and exercise authorities that many cardiac ailments could be reduced by maintaining a healthy weight and exercise level.

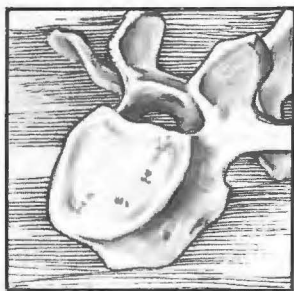

Excess weight may lead to the following: shortened life expectancy; coronary artery disease in the form of atherosclerosis, a build-up of plaque in the coronary vessels limiting the blood flow to the heart; increased potential for diabetes, hypertension and cancer; greater complications during cardiac problems as well as other health complications; increased potential for depression and social rejection; and a sedentary life style which limits the desire for physical activity, resulting in further weight gains.

Physical activity assists in reducing the blood's cholesterol level and has a cathartic effect emotionally which enables people to better cope with stress. Physically active people generally have a higher level of self-esteem.

There are innumerable methods to lose weight. In fact, it would be quite simple to write a book on a new diet plan in a very short time, and it would likely be a financially profitable endeavor. All one needs to do is to put his/her imagination into gear and devise a new gimmick; the problem is the book would most likely end up on the library shelves next to the other fad diet books, like those recommending water diets, banana diets, hot dog diets, high protein diets, and low protein diets.

Most of these radical suggestions are effective for a short time. After all, if a person eats nothing but hot dogs for a few days, he/she would rather starve than eat another hot dog. The problem arises shortly after the diet terminates, because the weight is quickly regained. For a successful long term weight loss, a change of life style must occur. This change will have a healthy and dependable result if it includes healthy foods (animal protein, vegetables, fruit, whole grain products and dairy products) which are consumed in moderate proportions. The health conscious person should supplement his/her diet with approximately 30 minutes of aerobic exercise (running, swimming, bicycling, tennis, racquetball, etc.) three times per week.

The easiest way to determine if you are maintaining a proper body weight is to stand in front of a mirror with no clothes on and take a good look at yourself. You do not need a physician to determine if you are overweight; the mirror will tell you the truth.

The easiest way to determine if you exercise enough is to recall how much active exercise you participated in last week. If you worked at it for a minimum of 30 minutes for at least three sessions, you are probably doing fine in the exercise category. If you have not exercised enough, maybe you should think about exercising a little more next week.

The easiest way to determine if you are eating a healthy diet is to make sure you have at least small amounts of food from all the major food groups. Be sure to minimize your intake of fatty foods and maximize your intake of high fiber foods (whole grain, fresh vegetables, fresh fruit).

Many people feel a need to consult a physician before commencing an exercise program or a diet program. This may not be necessary unless the individual has a restrictive health characteristic (i.e.: angina, diabetes, smoking habit, obesity, advancing age, etc.). Some physicians are not well trained in either nutrition or exercise, so if you do need to consult with a physician before altering your eating or exercise habits, choose a physician who is well versed in these disciplines.

Basic nutrition does not have to be an academic problem, nor does fitness; eating and exercising in moderation is the answer. A healthy lifestyle does not guarantee good health, but it is a variable over which the individual has control and it will increase your chances for a healthy life. □

May Day for Peace

While many nations use May Day celebrations as a time to display military hardware and the latest in modern weaponry, this year's May Day breakfast at Juniata focused on peace and nuclear disarmament.

This year's guest speaker, Marta Daniels '70 of Hartford, Conn., urged students to use their education "to prevent the nuclear winter, not to threaten nuclear war in order to keep our enemies in line." A staff member of the American Friends Service Committee, a 67-year-old Quaker organization dedicated to finding non-violent solutions to human conflict, Ms. Daniels works in the areas of peace education and disarmament.

The author of several major articles on U.S.-Soviet relations and the arms race, Ms. Daniels has traveled to the Soviet Union three times to discuss peace issues. She also has traveled to England to discuss deployment of Cruise and Pershing II missiles. In addition, she is one of the coordinators of the Connecticut Nuclear Freeze Campaign and has worked on the freeze movement nationwide.

Ms. Daniels recalled her feelings as a student experiencing the turbulence of the Vietnam War. "Living through that era made us look very hard and long at history, at politics, at government, at society, and at what one's right place in it all was. We learned to look below the surface of the headlines. But most of all, we learned to see our various studies within the context of current events and the world we were assigned to live in."

She went on to urge students to recognize "that our lives are really all that belong to us. So it's how we use our lives that determines what kind of human beings we are."

Noting that nuclear weapons have altered the nation's political system, Ms. Daniels said that the traditional concept of war has been abolished by their existence. "It has made nonsense and mockery of the system of international relations which, since time began, was based on war. But the problem is that we . . . have not yet accepted that fact. We don't believe we're really in a jam. We haven't changed our way of thinking, as Einstein would say."

Ms. Daniels warned that by building large nuclear arsenals, "we threaten to extinguish ourselves as a species and therefore, we must not only think, but act in a different way. This generation, yours and mine, has been called on to do something that no other generation has ever been called on to do — and that is to assume responsibility for the continuation of our kind: to choose human survival."

Marta Daniels

"The decision to continue the species will have to be a deliberate choice. Kicking the violence habit will not be easy. It will require hard work, and that work will have to be inspired by a sense of hope and even inspired by a kind of great love." □

J.C. In Top 300

Juniata is one of the 300 most competitive colleges in the United States, according to Peterson's Guides of Princeton, N.J. The well-known publisher of college guides has just published its new third edition of Competitive Colleges, listing 302 colleges and universities in the United States.

The publishers of Peterson's Competitive Colleges note that the colleges listed have a selective admissions policy. "Schools are considered 'competitive' when their students have done well on national tests and in high school, and when they consistently have more applicants that meet their entrance standards than they can admit." The guide goes on to note that the colleges and universities listed represent less than 10 percent of the institutions of higher education in the United States.

"This publication confirms what we have known all along," President Frederick M. Binder said. "Juniata gives its students an excellent education and is among the best colleges and universities in America."

Of the 302 institutions listed, Peterson's ranks Juniata 36th in the total number of financial aid recipients enrolled. Some 80 percent of Juniata's students receive some type of financial aid.

In addition to the Ivy League colleges, other institutions listed in Competitive Colleges include Amherst College, Baylor University, Bennington College, Hamilton College, Middlebury College, New York University, Pomona College, Skidmore College, Stanford University, Southern Methodist University, University of California at Berkeley, Villanova University, Wellesley College and Williams College. □

Church-College Relations Council Meets

Election of officers was the main order of business at the Church-College Relations Council meeting on May 19. G. Lawrence Landes '59 of the Atlantic Northeast District succeeded Ron Hendricks, also of Atlantic Northeast, as president. Landes is a family counselor with the Penn Foundation for Mental Health in Soudertown; Hendricks is a school teacher from Pennsburg.

Other new officers included Roger L. Forry of the Western District who became vice president/president-elect and council member-at-large. Forry is pastor of the Somerset Church of the Brethren. George T. Dolnikowski '52, associate professor of Russian and German at the college, was elected college representative to the council. Finally, Lucy Loomis of the Middle District and a member of University Baptist Church in State College continues as a member at large from the Middle District.

The Church-College Relations Council also announced the following vacancies: Middle District youth representative, freshman class representative, Western District youth representative and Western District representative. The council would like to enlist interested individuals for these positions before its fall meeting on Sept. 15.

Attendees at the May 19 meeting heard Dr. Robert Clouse, J. Omar Good Visiting Distinguished Professor of Evangelical Christianity, speak on the role of "Values-centered" education at the college. Emphasizing the need for the college to reach out to students and give them something in which to believe, Clouse expressed the hope that college can be a place for students to test beliefs and formulate life choices. He asserted that the values dimension of education is — and should remain — one of the features of private higher education that sets it apart from public institutions and is essential for its continuing viability.

Rev. M. Andrew Murray, campus minister, also addressed the council on the changes in the religious atmosphere at the college in his 13 years here. The hiring of a college counselor in 1978 changed Murray's primary thrust from counseling to religious programming for a "parish" of 1,300 students representing about 26 different faiths.

Pointing out an encouraging resurgence of religious interest, Murray noted how the Campus Ministry Board, which once had to seek out members, had 20 active aspirants for only six positions this year, making it one of the most hotly contested leadership organizations on the campus. With an average of one religious event or activity a day, Murray estimated that, at one time or another, about 90 percent of Juniata's students have been involved in a campus ministry function.

The growth of the Campus Ministry, which will be adding an intern assistant from Princeton and a Catholic priest on half-time next year, is indicative, according to Murray, of a renewed interest in religious programs among students, which his office seeks to answer by fostering an atmosphere and opportunities for religious expression and participation.

In other business, the council announced that John R. E. Hoover '47, a member of the First Church of the Brethren in Philadelphia and a chemist at Smith Kline and French, would receive the second annual Church-College Relations Service Award to honor his service to the church and college. The communications committee is preparing for its area communicators workshop to be held in conjunction with the fall council meeting. The program committee has set March 23, 1985 for the second annual leadership workshop, which was a big success earlier this year. The council also noted that church giving was ahead of last year's pace and discussed the possibility of individual congregations establishing loan funds for their students at Brethren colleges. □

Swigart-Smith Appointed

President Frederick M. Binder has announced the appointment of Janice A. Swigart-Smith as the college's new director of conferences and internships.

In this new position, Mrs. Swigart-Smith will serve as a liaison with the college's academic departments and area businesses and agencies offering internships. She also will promote Juniata students for internship consideration with businesses and agencies. In addition, Mrs. Swigart-Smith will direct the college's conference program, promoting Juniata's facilities and resources for conference use.

A 1978 graduate of Northern Arizona University, Mrs. Swigart-Smith received her B.S. degree in biology and later worked as an agricultural inspector for the State of Arizona.

From January 1979 to August 1983, Mrs. Swigart-Smith served in the U.S. Air Force, achieving the rank of Captain. While in the Air Force, she held a variety of positions in the areas of supply operations and logistical planning.

In addition to providing counseling on job progress and satisfaction, Mrs. Swigart-Smith worked as a material management manager, supervising military and civilian personnel and interviewing potential employees for placement within the material management branch. She has been the recipient of the Air Force Achievement Medal and the Air Force Commendation Medal.

"As director of conferences and internships, Mrs. Swigart-Smith will be working with students, faculty and administrators at Juniata, as well as area business and civic leaders," Dr. Binder noted. "Her background in personnel management makes her well qualified for this important position." □

Admissions Staff Update

Gayle Wampler Kreider '68, who has served as Juniata's director of admissions since 1979, has been named dean of admissions by President Frederick M. Binder.

A native of Harrisburg, Ms. Kreider joined the Juniata admissions staff in 1970, serving as an assistant to the director, admissions counselor, assistant director, associate director and finally director. She has served on the college's Alumni Council, is a past president of the Juniata Women's League and currently serves as president of the Pennsylvania Association of College Admissions Counselors.

"Under Gayle's leadership, Juniata's admissions program has grown and prospered," Dr. Binder noted. "She and her staff have spent countless hours working on behalf of the college in developing a competitive admissions program."

In addition to announcing Ms. Kreider's new title, Dr. Binder also announced the promotion of C. Robert Gielow to assistant director of admissions and named three new admissions counselors.

Gielow, a native of Woodstock, N.Y., is a 1982 graduate of Franklin and Marshall College and joined the Juniata staff as an admissions counselor that same year. He holds a B.A. degree in psychology.

The three new admissions counselors are Michelle M. Bartol, Stacy P. Godnick and David R. Sloan.

A 1984 Juniata graduate with a B.S. degree in marketing and communications, Miss Bartol is a native of Shamokin. She worked in the admissions office while at Juniata and was a member of the varsity track team. She also served as manager of the field hockey team and was active in the Juniata Executives Club.

Miss Godnick, a 1984 magna cum laude graduate of Gettysburg College, received her B.A. degree in sociology. A native of Princeton Junction, N.J., Miss Godnick served as chairperson of the Student Conduct Board at Gettysburg and copy editor of the student newspaper. She also served as a sociology lab and research assistant.

A native of Wayne, Sloan also is a 1984 Juniata graduate with a B.A. degree in political science and English. He was captain of the varsity wrestling team and received the David L. Helsel Award as the outstanding wrestler in 1983-84. In addition, he served as president of the Varsity J Club and as a residence hall assistant. In 1983, he was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. □

CIIC Goal Boosted

When the college's Board of Trustees launched the Century II Campaign (CIIC) in 1980, they regarded the $13 million capital development effort as a task to occupy the energies of the college for the entire decade of the '80s.

After only four and a half years, however, CIIC has far exceeded the early projections and, in successfully concluding its first phase, amassed $10 million in commitments and achieved the primary goal of the campaign, construction of the $4.8 million Kennedy Sports + Recreation Center. Under the leadership of Honorary Chairman Edwin L. Kennedy H'68 and General Chairman Henry H. Gibbel '57, the first phase of the campaign demonstrated clearly the exceptional capacity of Juniata's alumni and friends to support a project of importance to the college.

With only $3 million left to raise in the remaining five and a half years of the campaign, the success of the campaign was something of a mixed blessing. Faced with the question of how to maintain momentum for a campaign in the position of having a long time to go a short way, the Board opted for the solution of boosting the campaign goal to $20 million by the end of the 1980s.

The most ambitious capital development drive in Juniata's history as a $13 million campaign, the CIIC has gone a step beyond with its new goals. Phase II, which calls for $4.8 million by the end of 1987, and Phase III, with a goal of $5.2 million by 1990, have a rather broad but vital twin focus: endowment and academic development.

In looking to build its endowment, the college seeks to provide itself with additional financial flexibility as well as increasing educational opportunities through expanded merit- and need-based scholarship funds.

The college's academic development goals are directed toward enhancement of academic resources and programs throughout the curriculum. Dr. Frederick M. Binder, president of the college, explained the underlying goals for the remainder of the campaign.

"With the success of the recreation center phase of the campaign, we not only got the campaign off to a great start, but put the finishing touch on the college's major physical facility needs for the foreseeable future," explained Dr. Binder. "That places us in the enviable position of being able to concentrate most of our energies and resources on building the college's endowment and the quality of our academic programs. In the years ahead, endowment growth and academic excellence are going to become more vital than ever before in ensuring the continued well-being of Juniata," he observed. "The college now finds itself in a very strong position, both financially and academically — the best that it's ever been in. The final two phases of the Century II Campaign represent a remarkable opportunity for Juniata to advance itself even further and move even higher in stature among the select group of private, independent liberal arts colleges in whose company it now travels. The success of the final phases, and of the entire campaign, will go a long way in securing Juniata's future excellence as an institution," he concluded. □

When Juniata received a two-year, $250,000 matching grant from the Pew Memorial Trust of Philadelphia last year for academic computer application, the college was committed to raising $125,000 in each of the next two fiscal years (1983-84 and 1984-85) to satisfy terms of the match.

The college recently satisfied the first half of the matching grant requirements when it secured $125,000 for the project during the current fiscal period. A $15,000 grant from the Charles A. Frueauff Foundation of New York put Juniata over the top.

Support for the matching grant

Matching Grant Goal Met

drive came from a broad range of corporations, foundations, alumni and friends, and college faculty and staff. With the first leg of the match complete, the college is free to begin work on the second-year goal of $125,000.

By mid-1985, the college hopes to have completed the second phase of the drive, which would mean that the original grant from the Pew Memorial Trust and the matching funds from other sources would make up a full half of the million dollar capital expenditure for computerization committed by the college to modernize its academic and administrative areas. □

Volunteer of the Year

Gibbel Cited for Service

In recognition of his many years of volunteer service to Juniata College, Henry H. Gibbel '57 of Lititz has been presented with the Outstanding Volunteer of the Year Award by the Central Pennsylvania Chapter of the National Society of Fund Raising Executives.

A current member of the college's Board of Trustees, Gibbel's award was the first one ever presented by the Central Pennsylvania Chapter, and honors his "exceptional leadership skills in coordinating groups of volunteers for major fund raising projects." Gibbel was nominated for the award by the college.

Most recently as General Chairman of the Kennedy Sports + Recreation Center phase of the Century II Campaign, Gibbel provided leadership for some 150 volunteers and raised approximately $4.9 million for the college.

Gibbel also has served the college as president of the Alumni Association, alumni representative to the Board of Trustees from 1973-76 and in a variety of other volunteer roles. He was named to a permanent seat on the Board of Trustees in 1978.

"Many of Juniata's successful fund raising campaigns, including the recent effort for the new Kennedy Sports + Recreation Center, can be attributed to the leadership of Henry Gibbel," said President Frederick M. Binder. "Henry has always been anxious to lend his support to college projects. We benefit from his dedication, seek his leadership and trust his advice. The successful completion of the $4.5 million Kennedy Sports + Recreation Center campaign is the most recent example of Henry's efforts on behalf of Juniata," Dr. Binder said. "Henry is representative of the long tradition of trustee leadership dedicated to the development and growth of professional fund raising managers committed to the preservation and enhancement of the philanthropic process of society. □

Gibbel, executive vice president, secretary and director of Lititz Mutual Insurance Company and director and past chairman of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Companies, also serves as an officer and director of the Penn Chapter Mutual Insurance Company, president of Excess Mutual Reinsurance Company, and is secretary/treasurer, director and past president of the Pennsylvania Association of Mutual Insurance Companies.

In addition, Gibbel is a director of Susquehanna Bancshares and Farmers First Bank in Lititz, trustee of the Mutual Insurance Education Foundation, vice president and trustee of Brethren Village and a Board Associate of Bethany Theological Seminary. He and his wife, the former Joan Reist, have three children including Henry R., a 1981 Juniata graduate.

Science Grant Set

The Whitaker Foundation has approved a major grant request from Juniata College for the acquisition of scientific equipment.

The three-year $150,000 matching grant requires that the college raise $100,000 from other external sources in each of the next three fiscal years to match the three $50,000 annual installments from the foundation. When successfully completed, the two-for-one matching grant would bring $450,000 to Juniata for its scientific instrumentation needs.

The grant is part of the college's current capital development effort, the Century II Campaign, which has targeted program enrichment and academic equipment needs as two of the major goals in the concluding phases of the campaign. Juniata will seek to satisfy terms of the match by mid-1987.

Dow Offers Funds

As part of its undergraduate scholarship program, the Dow Chemical Company Foundation has established a chemistry scholarship at Juniata.

The Dow program provides $6,000 a year for four years, designating $5,000 for the scholarship and $1,000 for the discretionary use of the chemistry department to assist with educational programs. Dow began its undergraduate scholarship program in 1982, establishing programs at 20 colleges and universities. Juniata is now one of 40 institutions selected by Dow for the scholarship program.

To be known as the Dow Chemical Company Foundation Scholarship in Chemistry, the funds will be awarded each year on a merit basis to an outstanding high school science student who plans to pursue a B.S. degree in chemistry, and is inclined to continue his or her education through the Ph.D. level. The scholarship is renewable each year, provided the student maintains a "B" average in all credited courses.

"With this scholarship, the Dow Chemical Company Foundation is recognizing and supporting Juniata's fine chemistry program," President Frederick M. Binder said. Noting that Juniata ranks 11th nationally in the number of graduates who have received doctoral degrees in chemistry, Dr. Binder said the Dow Chemical Company Foundation scholarship represents a significant contribution to the chemistry department at Juniata.

At this year's Founders Day Tea, several members of the Juniata staff were honored for 10 years of service to the college. They are (left to right): Harold C. Clark, security officer; F. Robert Reilly, associate professor of sociology; Dr. William C. Vocke, associate professor of political science; Phyllis M. Buzzanell, science stockroom manager; Ibrook Tower, associate professor of music; Dawn M. Herzberg, natural sciences faculty secretary; and Dr. Clayton N. Pheasant '65, vice president for college advancement.

Pote Named V.P.

Garry L. Pote '68, a member of the Juniata College Board of Trustees, has been named senior vice president of Banque de Nationale de Paris. In his new position, Pote will head the Merchant Banking Division, which has responsibility for corporate merger agreements. He left his position as senior vice president of Shearson/American Express, Inc. to assume his new post in April, but will continue to maintain his office in New York.

A native of Roaring Spring, Pote received his B.A. in economics from Juniata in 1968. An M.B.A. graduate of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School in 1970, he began his career in investment banking with Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith and then as treasurer of Equimark Corporation, a bank holding company in Pittsburgh. First vice president of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields, Inc. from 1975 to 1978, he joined Loeb, Rhoades, Hornblower and Co., a predecessor firm of Shearson/American Express in 1978.

Garry L. Pote

A former Alumni Council member at Juniata, he was elected to the Board of Trustees in 1982. He has served the college as alumni gifts vice chairman of the Sports + Recreation Center phase of the Century II Campaign and as an advisory board member of the Department of Economics and Business Administration. Pote and his wife, the former JoAnne Bergstresser of Roaring Spring, have a daughter and reside in New Canaan, Conn. □

J. Omar Good Prof. Named

Scholars from throughout the country have come to Juniata each year through the J. Omar Good Visiting Distinguished Professorship in Evangelical Christianity, sharing their knowledge with students, faculty and members of the community.

The program continues in 1984-85 with Dr. Corbin S. Carnell, professor of English at the University of Florida, serving as the ninth J. Omar Good Professor.

A member of the University of Florida faculty since 1958, Dr. Carnell received his B.A. degree magna cum laude from Wheaton College. He holds an M.A. degree from Columbia University and a Ph.D. from the University of Florida.

Dr. Carnell has been the recipient of a summer research grant from the Church Society of College Work and was twice a runner-up for the Standard Oil Distinguished Teaching Award. He has been named an "Outstanding Professor" at the University of Florida.

Dr. Carnell began his teaching career at Bethany College in West

Dr. Corbin S. Carnell

Virginia, and has taught summer courses at Georgetown University, Florida Presbyterian College, the University of British Columbia and Sir Sanford Fleming College in Ontario.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Carnell is the author of numerous books and articles. He is a consulting editor for Mythlore and has been a member of the Advisory Council of the Danforth Foundation.

The J. Omar Good Visiting Distinguished Professorship in Evangelical Christianity was established in 1975 with a bequest from the late J. Omar Good, an 1896 graduate who left the college $1 million. Pauline and the late Lester Rosenberger of Narberth, trustees of Mr. Good's estate, decided that his final wish for "the perpetuation of the Historical Triune Faith of Protestant Christianity," could best be carried out by establishing a professorial chair at Juniata.

Dr. Carnell will teach a course each academic term, participate in on-campus seminars and discussions, and deliver public lectures. His immediate successor was Dr. Robert G. Clouse, professor of history at Indiana State University. The previous chair occupants were: Dr. C. Samuel Calian (1975-76 and 1976-77), Dr. Chad Walsh (1977-78), Dr. E. Earle Ellis (1978-79), the Rev. George M. Docherty (1979-80), Dr. Richard J. Mouw (1980-81), Dr. Merold Westphal (1981-82) and Dr. Mark A. Noll (1982-83). □

Juniata Cited by CASE

Juniata College was recently the recipient of several distinguished awards for achievement presented by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE).

The College was cited by CASE for excellence in three publication improvement categories in the highly competitive recognition program.

An Exceptional Achievement Award was pinned to the Juniata Catalog, the cover of which was part of a redesign package provided by the Baltimore-based Barton-Gillet Co.

Citation Awards were received for publications in the following two categories (All publications were provided as a redesign package by The Barton-Gillet Co. except those marked with an * which were produced by the Juniata College publications staff.):

Commencement 1984!

Commencement should be viewed "not as just another starting line for yet another race, but as the departure from a base camp for higher adventure," Frank Hodsoll, chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, told Juniata's graduating seniors.

Hodsoll was the featured speaker at the 105th Commencement ceremony held Sunday, May 27.

A total of 266 students received bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees during the afternoon ceremony held on campus. An additional 20 students were recognized as candidates for August graduation. Eight students received their degrees magna cum laude, while 11 graduated cum laude.

In his address, Hodsoll said the qualities of freedom and discipline are essential to this higher adventure, "as are both art and science in liberal education." Hodsoll went on to note that art and science are collaborating in many ways — artists are taking advantage of technological advances, and the National Endowment supports innovation and experimentation involving scientific inventions.

"Imagination and discipline in applying the skills and values learned at Juniata will be essential to success in the world." Hodsoll added that Juniata graduates should "never be ashamed to dream," and, as Teddy Roosevelt said, should "dare greatly."

A lawyer and career government service officer, Hodsoll was appointed chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts by Siems, associate professor of physics and recipient of the Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching; and Dr. Donald T. Hartman, vice president and dean of academic affairs.*

President Reagan in November, 1981. Prior to that, he held posts on the White House staff, was a Foreign Service officer with the State Department, and has held positions with the Environmental Protection Agency and Council on Environmental Quality. He is a graduate of Yale University and Stanford University Law School.

The Commencement ceremony was highlighted by the presentation of two honorary doctoral degrees. Jack E. Oller '23 of Huntingdon received an honorary Doctor of Letters degree. Noting his many accomplishments, Dr. Oller's citation reads, "Through his travel, his photography, his considerable athletic accomplishments and his deep appreciation and love of France, we were enriched in mind and soul, and relieved from pervasive provinciality."

Oller, professor of French and director of the foreign language laboratory, emeritus, is a member of Juniata's Board of Trustees and a past recipient of the Alumni Service Award.

Noting that "the fierce light of his free spirit scanned the edges of human endeavor, giving hope where there was little and providing confidence for a better world," the college awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree to Michael R. Zigler of New Windsor, Md., founder of the On Earth Peace Association. Dr. Zigler has served the Church of the Brethren as a pastor, national executive and seminar trustee.

Both honorary degrees were conferred by President Frederick M. Binder. Dr. Oller was introduced by Dr. Calvert N. Ellis '23, president emeritus. The Rev. Dr. M. Andrew Murray, campus minister, presented Dr. Zigler.

Teaching Awards Presented

Distinguished teaching awards were presented to two Juniata faculty members during the college's 105th Commencement ceremony.

Dr. Duane F. Stroman, professor of sociology, received the 17th annual Beachley Distinguished Professor Award, while Dr. Norman E. Siems, associate professor of physics, was presented with the seventh annual Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching.

The Beachley Award was established by Donovan R. Beachley, Sr. '21 and Donovan R. Beachley, Jr. '47, both members of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Donovan R. Beachley, Jr., all of Hagerstown, Md.

The award provides a $2,000 stipend to a professor who contributes to the development of the individual's department and the college as a whole. Teaching effectiveness, scholarly activities, service beyond the campus and length of service to the college also are important factors.

Nominations for the Beachley professor are received from students, faculty, administrative personnel, alumni and trustees. The final selection is made by the college's president, dean of

To The Class of 1984

I congratulate the Class of 1984 for your attainments. I congratulate your parents who made all this possible, and I convey to each of you my sincere and fondest belief that you will grow and succeed in the years ahead: growing first in knowledge, then in wisdom as you pursue the truth and succeed in becoming not simply a competent doctor or teacher or manager or accountant, but in becoming, with each passing year, a better human being.

The pursuit of truth is really the primary goal of a liberal arts education. It is the Alpha and Omega of that elusive term we call learning.

Pontius Pilate asked Jesus, "What is truth?" and walked away before getting a reply. Unlike Pilate, the educated person does not walk away from truth, but walks toward it.

Truth leads to a nobility of spirit and a desire to do what one can to create a better personal life, a better community, even a better world. Contrary to the popular saying — Truth does not hurt. Truth heals.

Truth contains no malice. Truth is stripped of hypocrisy. Truth is the bone and sinew of being and becoming.

Truth is not only intellectual. It is spiritual. It liberates the mind and soul from the shoddy, the unclean and the flawed.

May each one of you always remember the Latin motto on the college seal:

Veritus Liberat — Truth Sets Free
Frederick M. Binder,
President

Two honorary degrees were awarded at this year's Commencement ceremonies. Dr. Jack E. Oller '23, professor of French and director of the foreign language laboratory, emeritus, and a member of the college's Board of Trustees, received a Doctor of Letters degree. An honorary Doctor of Humane Letters was presented to Dr. Michael R. Zigler, founder of the On Earth Peace Association. Pictured are (left to right): Dr. Calvert N. Ellis '23, president, emeritus, who presented Dr. Oller for his degree; Dr. Oller; President Frederick M. Binder who awarded the degrees; Dr. Zigler; and the Rev. Dr. M. academic affairs, student government president and the three most recent recipients.

The last three Beachley Award recipients have been Dr. James J. Lakso, professor of economics and business administration (1983), Dr. James L. Gooch, professor of biology (1982) and Dr. Dale L. Wampler, professor of chemistry and director of the academic computer center (1981).

Dr. Stroman joined the faculty in 1963 as an instructor. He was promoted to assistant professor in 1965, associate professor in 1967 and professor in 1976. In addition, he has served the college as assistant dean of academic affairs, chairman of the sociology department and director of continuing education. Dr. Stroman currently serves as director of the college's summer Elderhostel program and as co-coach of the varsity golf team.

A native of Ohio, Dr. Stroman received his B.A. degree from Ohio Wesleyan University. He also holds an S.T.B. degree from Boston University School of Theology and a Ph.D. from Boston University Graduate School. In addition, he has studied at The Pennsylvania State University and Harvard University. Dr. Stroman is the author of three books and numerous professional papers and reports. He has been active in many local organizations and served as a consultant to civic and professional groups.

President Frederick M. Binder praised Dr. Stroman for his service to the college and community, calling him "one of the most respected members of the faculty. His dedication to his students and mankind in general has made him an outstanding educator."

Funded by the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation of Philadelphia, the Lindback Award provides a $500 stipend. Selection criteria includes contributions to the total educational effort of the college and outstanding work by a junior faculty member who has served the college for seven or fewer years.

The award recipient is selected by Dr. Binder, who is assisted by a committee of faculty members. Last year's recipient was Dr. Kim M. Richardson, assistant professor of education.

Dr. Siems came to Juniata in 1980 as an assistant professor and was promoted to associate professor in 1981. He holds a B.S. degree in physics from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, an M.S. degree in physics from The Johns Hopkins University and a Ph.D. in nuclear science from Cornell University.

While at Cornell, Dr. Siems served as a teaching assistant, and as a research assistant at the Brookhaven National Laboratory. From 1973-80, Dr. Siems taught physics at Quincy College in Illinois. He is an active researcher and has written several professional articles and papers.

In presenting the award to Dr. Siems, Dr. Binder said, "His enthusiasm and commitment have stimulated the minds of his students and earned him the respect of all members of the college community." □

Board Members Named

C. Wesley Lingenfelter '55 of Roaring Spring, Betty F. Simpson '49 of Tyrone and John C. Wickert of Camp Hill have been named to the Juniata College Board of Trustees for three-year terms.

Lingenfelter was selected to represent the Middle District, Church of the Brethren, and is one of three church trustees on the board.

He is vice president and director of personnel of New Enterprise Stone and Lime Company, Inc., a firm he has been associated with since 1957. He is a member of the President's Development Council at Juniata and has served the college in a variety of volunteer roles.

A deacon and chairman of the Roaring Spring Church of the Brethren, Lingenfelter has been active in numerous civic organizations including Nason Hospital and the American Cancer Society.

Simpson will be one of three alumni representatives on the board and was elected by the college's alumni.

A former Tyrone area school teacher, Simpson is currently vice president and co-owner of Allegheny Mountain Network, a group of nine radio stations in Pennsylvania. She is a member of the Juniata Alumni Council and the Board of Trustees of Tyrone Hospital.

In addition, she has been active in the Tyrone Women's Club, Blair County Association of Citizens with Learning Disabilities, Johnstown Regional Blood Bank and the American Red Cross. She is an elder of the First Presbyterian Church, Tyrone and was named "Woman of the Year" in Tyrone in 1977.

Wickert, chairman of the board, chief executive officer and director of Dauphin Deposit Bank and Trust Company, is an alumnus of Erskine College, Muhlenberg College and the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University.

In addition, he serves as president and director of Dauphin Deposit Trust Company, chairman of the board and director of Dauphin Investment Company and president and director of Dauphin Life Insurance Company. Wickert also serves on the Government Relations Council of the American Bankers

International Assn. Launched

by Dr. William C. Vocke

Over the last ten years, Juniata has increasingly emphasized the international aspects of a liberal arts education. Through the efforts of individuals like President Frederick M. Binder and Dr. William Russey, Juniata has focused on strengthening its international exchange and study abroad programs. The number of European students who have graduated from JC as well as many American alumni living abroad has risen dramatically since 1975. We now need to take this opportunity to strengthen Juniata's international network of friends and their ties with each other.

The alumni office and interested faculty have suggested a basic

Association and as a director of the Bank of Pennsylvania and Bancorp of Pennsylvania, Inc.

Wickert's civic activities include trustee of the Foundation of Independent Colleges, Inc., member of the Board of Managers of Harrisburg Hospital Health Foundation, director of the Keystone Area Boy Scout Council, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce and director of the Tri-County United Way.

In addition to the three new board members, nine other trustees have been reelected for additional three-year terms. They are: Donovan R. Beachley, Sr. '21 of Hagerstown, Md.; Charles C. Brown, Jr. '59 of Bellefonte; Earl D. Croner '38 of Berlin; Charles C. Ellis '40 of Washington, D.C.; Joseph R. Good '33 of Hollidaysburg; Edwin L. Kennedy of New Vernon, N.J.; Charles R. Knox '54 of Kirkland, Wash.; Edwin A. Malloy of Westport, Conn. and Garry L. Pote '68 of New Canaan, Conn. □ structure for the Juniata International Alumni Association (JIAA) which incorporates it into college Alumni Association activities. Three groups would be involved in the JIAA Executive Committee: (1) area or country presidents (France, Germany, Latin America, etc.), (2) a representative to the Alumni Council in the States, and (3) a JIAA president.

We have also developed an initial schedule and some thoughts on activities. International trips, return excursions to the U.S., screening and information for exchangees, renewal of old friendships and making new contacts have all emerged as reasons for getting together.

To launch the program, Dr. Russey and I will be visiting all exchange institutions in November. An evening of fun and fellowship to exchange ideas with the local alumni is planned. The first annual JIAA meeting will occur over Easter break. Where would the most convenient, inexpensive, and interesting location be for a gathering: Amsterdam, Trier, Brussels? If you are eager to begin, Estelle Dercherf, one of this year's exchange students, has suggested spending a holiday weekend, September 1-3, at the festival in Lille.

You will be hearing more from us shortly. Let us know your address and please respond with your ideas and suggestions regarding our plans. Write to Marjorie Love or William Vocke in care of the Alumni Office. □

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Vocke, who has been a member of the Political Science faculty since 1974, was recently appointed Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs and Director of International Programs.

Alumni Assist Programs

Over the past year, the Office of Alumni Relations has concentrated on developing stronger alumni interest and support in the areas of Admissions and Career Planning & Placement. It is our hope that the successful launching of new programs in these areas this year will serve as the impetus for increased alumni volunteer support in the years ahead.

Our Alumni Admissions volunteers are vital to the recruitment of new students and helping the college to maintain enrollment levels. Interested alumni work closely with the Admissions Committee of the Alumni Council, the Admissions Office and the Alumni Office in contacting prospective students from their home areas and discussing Juniata College with them. Alumni participate in such recruitment activities as helping to staff booths at college fairs, hosting or attending regional receptions for prospective students, and making personal contacts with selected prospects. On an informal basis, we encourage alumni to talk about Juniata with young people whenever the opportunity presents itself, such as at high school or youth organization functions in their communities.

A successful new program launched in conjunction with the Career Planning & Placement Office this year is Operation Extern. Under this program, students are paired with alumni in a career field of interest to the students for two to three days to provide them with on-the-job exposure to the profession and the chance to ask questions on an informal basis.

Students were placed in such professional settings as banking, medicine, law, marketing, chemical research and physiological research through contacts with supportive alumni and friends of the College. Feedback from the students was uniformly positive, and, in many cases, enlightening to the students in terms of the appropriateness of their career goals. In essence, our students benefited from a career exposure that would not have been possible without alumni support.

The Alumni Office, in coordination with Admissions and Career Planning & Placement, hope to continue these and other programs in the years ahead with an ever-growing level of personal involvement and leadership from alumni and friends of the College. These programs offer an attractive, rewarding opportunity for alumni and friends to provide vital support and service to the College with a minimum amount of time and energy. For more information on these and other alumni service programs, please contact Marjorie J. Love '80 in the Alumni Office at (814) 643-4310 extension 442. □

FACULTY AND STAFF

At May's joint meeting of the Central Pennsylvania Section of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the Society of Physics Students, professors and students came together to share research and present papers. Attending from Juniata were WILFRED G. NORRIS '54, professor of physics, RAY L. PFROGNER '60, associate professor of physics and department chairman, NORMAN E. SIEMS, associate professor of physics, NICKLES G. SPRYN '84 of Butler and LESLIE H. BONJACK '86 of Chardon, Ohio. At the meeting, Dr. Pfrogner was elected to a five-year term as one of four Section Representatives to the national AAPT.

ROBERT P. ZIMMERER, professor of biology, presented a paper at the 60th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science. The paper, co-authored by ALLISON HILDEBRANDT '83, was entitled "Unusual Conifer Niches in a Pennsylvania Forest."

JAMES R. DONALDSON '67, associate professor of economics and business administration, has been elected to membership in Beta Gamma Sigma, the national scholastic honorary society of students of business and management. Membership is restricted to students of high scholarship in institutions accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. Donaldson recently completed his M.B.A. at Syracuse University.

A new Spanish translation of a book on the Reformation has been written by JOSE C. NIETO, Mary S. Geiger Professor of Religion and professor of history and George H. Williams, Hollis Professor of Divinity at Harvard University. The book is a Spanish edition of The Radical Reformation originally written by Williams in 1962. At the request of Williams, Nieto rewrote two chapters, completely revising the contents and adding new material.

CLAUDE R. PARMELY, assistant professor of chemistry, has been named director of the Brumbaugh Science Center. In this position, Parmely will be responsible for overseeing the physical facilities and support services of the Brumbaugh Science Center. In addition, he will assess areas within the science departments and help establish policies in the areas of safety, security and equipment use.

The Pennsylvania Department of Education selected THOMAS W. WOODROW '58, associate professor of education and department chairman, to serve on the evaluation team reviewing the teacher education programs at Point Park College in Pittsburgh.

J. PETER TREXLER, professor of geology and department chairman, was one of the reviewers of the Stratigraphic Correlation Chart of Pennsylvania by Berg, McInerney, Way and MacLachlan. The 1983 publication is General Geology Report 75 of the Pennsylvania Geologic Survey, and is part of Correlation of Stratigraphic Units of North America, sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists. Trexler was asked to review the chart because of his more than 12 years of experience doing geologic mapping and research in the anthracite region of eastern Pennsylvania.

One of the participants in a summer institute in historical archaeology at Flowerdeew Hundred Plantation on Virginia's James River will be PAUL M. HEBERLING, associate professor of anthropology. Sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Flowerdeew Hundred Foundation, Heberling will participate in field excavations, research and discussion, and field trips. Archaeological work has been underway at the plantation since 1971 and more than 65 sites have been located or explored so far.

THOMAS J. BALDINO, assistant professor of political science, has been named state coordinator for the Pennsylvania Political Science Association conference which will be held at Juniata April 19-20, 1985. Baldino recently attended the 1984 conference where he chaired a panel discussion on State and Urban Politics.

Baldino and WILLIAM C. VOCKE, associate professor of political science, have been selected to participate in "Project 87" sponsored by the American Political Science Association and American Historical Association in preparation for the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. As part of the program, both will be attending special courses this summer.

Promoting the Constitution's bicentennial was the topic of another workshop which Baldino attended in May. This program was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Education.

Last month, Vocke attended a planning meeting at the University of Pennsylvania held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Council on International Education. Participants worked on developing an international internship program for American students studying abroad and foreign students studying in Pennsylvania. Attending the meeting with Vocke was CRAIG BAXTER, professor of politics and history; JAMES R. DONALDSON '67, associate professor of economics and business administration; and CORNELIS J. FRIJTERS, professor of French and linguistics.

The eight students selected as Juniata Women for 1984 were ALYSON L. PFISTER '84 of Willingboro, N.J., KARYN L. CABLE '84 of Clearwater, Fla., ELIZABETH A. GALLAGHER '85 of Harleysville, DEBORAH L. MAUE '85 of Shamokin, KATRINA M. WEADER '86 of Selinsgrove, CYNTHIA L. COOPER '86 of Covington, DANIELLE M. RUPP '87 of Red Lion and ERICA L. SEYBERT '87 of Berwyn.

The other eight Juniata Men for 1984, all members of the class of 1984, are: ROBERT E. ADAMEK of Pittsburgh, JAMES G. ADAMS of Altoona, CHRISTOPHER D. COLLINS of Ebensburg, GREGORY A. KIMBLE of Tyrone, RONALD F. RENZINI of Scranton, MARK J. SHAW of Norristown, DAVID R. SLOAN of Wayne and JOSEPH WHITACRE, JR. of York Springs.

The Juniatian staff has selected its editorial board for the 1984-85 academic year. ELIZABETH A. GALLAGHER '85 of Harleysville has been named editor-in-chief, while PAUL G. BOMBERGER '86 of New Holland serves as managing editor. KATHLEEN M. MANZELLA '85 is the paper's news editor, and VIRGINIA A. KRALL

'86 of Ephrata and AMY G. SMITH '85 of Warriors Mark will serve as features editors. Serving as sports editor is ANDREW M. HISCOCK '87 of E. Farmingdale, N.Y.

Spring is election time on campus, and students went to the polls to elect class, student government and Center Board officers. DAVID G. WAGNER of Pittsburgh was elected to a third term as president of the class of 1985. Also re-elected were class Vice President RANDALL P. SMITH of Hopewell and Secretary LISA K. GREISS of York. THOMAS W. YOKOYAMA of Wilmington, Del. is the new class treasurer.

The class of 1986 re-elected its president, THOMAS C. CANCELMO of Radnor. Serving with him will be BETH A. BENGE of Red Lion, vice president; DAVID D. CHALLENGER of Bethlehem, secretary; and JOHN R. HUNTER of Philadelphia, treasurer.

The new officers for the class of 1987 are SCOTT R. STEPHENSON of Pittsburgh, president; LORRAINE L. TILTON of Hopewell, N.J., vice president; KAREN A. REAP of Smethport, secretary; and KENNETH C.

GFROERER of Wellsboro, treasurer.

ROXANN L. BINNER '84 of Dillsburg, a mathematics and computer science major, was honored as Juniata's Woman of the Year during the annual May Day breakfast. In all, 18 students were recognized on the basis of their cordiality and poise; personal competence and achievement in the arts, academics, sports and other fields; service to the college, community or both; and self-determination and responsibility. Miss Binner was escorted by JEFFREY R. RUSH '84 of Canandaigua, N.Y., a finance major, who was named Juniata's Man of the Year.

Leading student government during the 1984-85 academic year will be President T. GLENN BOUDER '85 of Bethlehem and Vice President LUTHER J. THOMAS, JR. '86 of Hanover.

The Ellis College Center Board will be led by Chairman RICHARD W. MROSKY '85 of Armagh, Vice Chairman DEBORAH L. MAUE '85 of Shamokin and Secretary RICKEE A. HOFFNER '85 of Shermans Dale.

Reunion Weekend — Revisited!

Council-of-12 Meets

This year's Reunion Weekend had a special meaning for a group of seven alumni. Those members of the classes of 1959 and 1960 were part of the Council of 12, all residents of the Cloister Arch during the 1958-59 academic year who developed a special friendship which lasted over the years.

"We did everything together," says Charles C. Brown, Jr. '59 of Bellefonte, one of the 12. "We even had an intramural football team." Brown, President Judge, Court of Common Pleas, Centre County, explains that when eight of the 12 graduated in 1959, they buried a time capsule in the Oller Hall lawn. Twelve years later, they returned to Juniata to retrieve the capsule.

Several members of the group returned to campus again last fall and decided to attend the class of 1959's 25th reunion in June. It took a bit of searching, but all of the Council of 12 members were contacted, and seven were in attendance at Reunion Weekend.

In addition to Brown, those present were Dr. Allen L. Custer '59, an ophthalmologist from Edmonds, Wash.; Dr. Peter M. Fahrney '59, a physician from Bethesda, Md.; Carl G. Wass '59, an attorney from Harrisburg; C. Willard (Bill) Ebner '59, a high school teacher from Pittsburgh; James L. Copenheaver '60, a professor at the State University of New York at Alfred; and James A. Woomer '60, president of Small Tube Products Company, Inc. in Duncansville.

Those who were unable to attend were the Rev. Stanley L. Davis, Jr. '59 of Oak Park, Ill., executive director of the Chicago office of the National Conference of Christians and Jews; the Rev. Terry E. Fouse '59, a Presbyterian minister from Trenton, N.J.; Dr. Robert C. Kreuzburg '59 of Brookeville, Md., an administrator with the Indian Health Services section of the Health Services Administration; Robert A. Doyle '60 of Montevallo, Ala., director of admissions and records at the University of Montevallo; and Milton C. Chew, Jr. '60 of Halifax, N.S., a professor at St. Mary's University. □

VISITORS

The nuclear arms issue was the topic of a debate held on campus April 4 between GEN. WILLIAM C. WESTMORELAND, former commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam, and HARVEY WASSERMAN, journalist and anti-nuclear activist. The debate covered such topics as the deployment of the Pershing II missiles in Europe, the need for the MX missile system and the nuclear freeze movement.

DR. JOHN C. TREVOR, one of the world's leading experts on the Dead Sea Scrolls, discussed their importance during a J. Omar Good Lecture in April. Dr. Trevor, director of the Dead Sea Scrolls Project at the School of Theology at Claremont, played an important role in the discovery of the scrolls while a fellow of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem in 1947-48.

"The U.S. and Southern Africa" was the topic of the William G. and Mary A. Nyce Lecture presented May 8 by JENNIFER S. WHITAKER, a fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations and director of its African Development Project. She discussed African affairs and her recent visit to Southern Africa. The Nyce Lectureship brings American and international scholars to campus to discuss crucial world issues.

This year's Will Judy Lecture, presented May 9, was given by DR. THOMAS EISNER, one of the nation's leading biologists and currently the Jacob Gould Schurman Professor of Biology at Cornell University. The title of his lecture was "Survival in the World of Insects."

SEN. ROBERT C. JUBELIRER, Majority Leader of the Pennsylvania State Senate, discussed "The Role of the Majority Leader in the Passage of Legislation" with a Juniata audience on May 16. The senator's presentation was part of the G. Graybill Diehm Lecture in Political Science.

Reunion Weekend Rated Success

The theme was good health and fitness, and even the weatherman cooperated with beautiful spring sunshine as hundreds of alumni returned to Juniata June 2-3 for the annual Reunion Weekend.

With activities running from Friday afternoon through Sunday morning, there was something for everyone. This was especially true on Saturday when a series of educational workshops was conducted covering such topics as estate planning, food, computers, stress management and fun with chemistry. The day also featured physical fitness activities at the Kennedy Sports + Recreation Center. Swimming, racquetball, tennis, aerobics, softball and horseshoes were included. Others selected a relaxing cruise on Raystown Lake.

As in past years, the highlight of the weekend was the annual Alumni

Luncheon featuring the presentation of the Alumni Service and Achievement Awards.

Honored this year were Telford B. Blough '27 of Hollsopple, recipient of the Service Award, and Wendell M. McMillan '48 of Arlington, Va. who received the Achievement Award.

A retired supervising principal in the Conemaugh Township Union Schools and owner of Blough's Evergreen Nursery, Dr. Blough has served Juniata as a member of the Alumni Council, alumni representative to the Board of Trustees, president of the Cambria County Alumni Association, first alumni secretary, class fund agent, member of the Alumni Association Executive Committee and in a number of other volunteer leadership roles.

Active in many local organizations including the Conemaugh Lions Club and the Moxham Church of the Brethren, Dr. Blough is married to the former Mary Helen Wardlaw. They have four children.

Noting his many talents and accomplishments, his citation reads in part, "Telford Blough is honored today as a man whose life expresses a kind of basic, undiluted faith not often seen in our times. That he has so generously shared his faith and enthusiasm for people and life with his college for so long is one of the blessings that Juniata may count high on its list."

A senior agricultural economist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and U.S. Agency for International Development, Dr. McMillan provides technical advice and guidance on agricultural development in Africa.

In his current role, and in previous positions as a consultant and employee of the World Bank and the United Nations, Dr. McMillan has traveled the world undertaking studies and projects aimed at improving agricultural development. He has assisted the governments and farmers in such nations as Syria, Lesotho, Indonesia, Barbados, Sudan, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Afghanistan and Grenada. His work has earned him numerous honors including the Certificate of Merit and Outstanding Performance Award from the Department of Agriculture. He and his wife Eleanor have three children.

Dr. McMillan's citation notes, "For more than 30 years, you have brought your expertise to bear in agricultural development and management projects that touched the lives of people at the most basic human level — by helping them to find a better way of producing food."

In addition to the presentation of awards, the luncheon included the change in leadership of the National Alumni Association. James E. Reid '66 of Camp Hill assumed presidency of the association, succeeding Fred P. Heydrick '55 of Frederick, Md. Reid is a tax partner in the Harrisburg law firm of Connelly, Martsof and Reid.

Succeeding Reid as Alumni Council vice president is Thomas N.

Dr. Telford B. Blough

Rupert, Jr. '63 of Bethlehem, manager of the Planning and Control Services and Information Services Department of Bethlehem Steel Corp. By virtue of the Alumni Association constitution, Rupert also is the Council's president-elect.

Earlier in the day at the spring meeting of the Alumni Council, the six newly elected members-at-large were welcomed. They are: James A. Ake '59 of State College, Dr. Kathie (Wareham '74) Bennett of Hershey, Daniel B. Hoover '70 of Roaring Spring, Charles F. Mullen '57 of Fairless Hills, Aliceann M. Wohlbruck '58 of Washington, D.C. and Dr. George M. Zlupko of Altoona. Betty (Finnegan '49) Simpson of Tyrone was welcomed as the new alumni representative on the Board of Trustees.

Outgoing Council members were thanked for their dedication and service during the last three years. They are: Richard E. Kramer, Jr. '57 of Lafayette Hill, David G. Oliver '63 of Middlesex, N.J., Carole (Peters '68) Broadwater of Elizabethtown, William J. Collins '56 of Worthington, Ohio, Donald J. Conley '58 of Camp Hill and Patricia (Janusz '62) Shreiner of Chambersburg.

The members of the class of 1934 who were attending their 50th class reunion were given special recognition during the weekend. President and Mrs. Frederick M. Binder hosted the class reunion dinner at their home. Joseph P. Long coordinated the reunion activities for the class of 1934. □

Diamond Nine Champs

Spring Sports Wrap-up

It's getting to be an annual occurrence on the playing fields of Juniata's spring sports. The teams are all primed, fine tuned, and geared up to get under way, only to find that the neatly trimmed and limed playing surfaces that they are to compete on are looking more like the Florida Everglades. The coaches, fans and players are patient, however, and eventually the monsoon season passes, as was the case this year.

The Tribe diamond-men opened the 1984 campaign a week late, hoping to at least equal their impressive 20-7 1983 performance. While the final record of 17-9 may not indicate it, the Indians surpassed their expectations by winning the championship of the MAC Northern Division and coming within two runs of winning the conference title.

One week before the MAC Tournament was scheduled to begin, it looked as if the Indians had lost all hope of making it to the championship tournament. The Tribe had dropped a twin-bill to Wilkes to apparently give Wilkes the Northwest Section title.

When it was discovered that the Colonels had used an ineligible fifth-year player, athletic director and head baseball coach Bill Berrier filed a protest with the MAC. The protest was upheld by the conference and the Indians were on their way to the MAC Tournament in Elizabethtown.

The Tribe opened in a semi-final contest with Northeast champ Delaware Valley. The Aggies led by a score of 7-4 after six-and-a-half innings, but the Indian bats exploded for five runs in their half of the stanza to stay out in front for good. The 12-8 decision was highlighted by junior Dave Murphy's two-out grand slam round tripper in the sixth inning rally.

For the first time all season, the Indians could see the light at the end of the MAC Championship tunnel with Southern Division champ Western Maryland the only obstacle yet to be overcome. Through the first five innings of the championship contest, the Tribe was in control. They built a commanding 12-6 lead before Terror relief pitchers shut down the Juniata offensive machine.

Western Maryland came back in the eighth inning with six runs to tie the score and ended the Indians' hopes for an MAC crown in the tenth with a triple/sacrifice fly combination.

Grady Paul and Steve Poska provided the Indians with the majority of their power in the contest. Paul had a pair of triples and Poska added a home run to aid the Indian cause. The two combined for eight of the Tribe's RBIs.

Paul, Poska and Dave Murphy were honored with post-season selection to the MAC Northern Division All-Star team.

SOFTBALL AND GOLF

The women's softball team had hoped to chalk up its second winning season in as many years but such was not the case as the lady Indians closed the 1984 season with a 6-8 record.

The Tribe opened strong with a 3-1 record going into a big conference double-header with Franklin & Marshall. It was not the Lady Indians' day, however, as the tribe dropped both ends. The young team went into a tailspin following the pre-break double defeat and was never able to fully recover.

Senior Grady Paul prepares to tag one of his 25 round-trippers. Paul was selected to the MAC Northern Division All-Star team and was the recipient of Juniata's Stanford Mickle Award. He recently signed with the Baltimore Orioles' instructional team in Bluefield, W. Virginia.

The Indian golf team opened their 1984 campaign under what was termed "winter-like conditions." The teemen were 0-4 before picking up their first win against Mt. St. Mary's. The team went on to post victories over Lycoming and Dickinson to close the year with a 3-6 record.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S TENNIS

The men's tennis team, under the direction of Coach Rob Ash, posted the first winning season of an Indian tennis team in eight years, closing 1984 at 6-4.

The ace for the 1984 Indians was French exchange student Stephane Wallaert. Wallaert posted a singles record of 6-2 on the year, while combining with teammate John Dorner for a 7-1 doubles season total.

The Juniata women had a more difficult time of it in 1984. The lady netters were only able to count a single stroke in the win column against five losses. The lone victory came against York College in the second match of the season. The Tribe was paced by sophomore Leanne Egolf who competed in the MAC tennis championship tournament. Egolf was eliminated in the semi-final match after defeating the fourth-seeded player in quarterfinal play.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S TRACK AND FIELD

As a team, the 1984 editions of the men's and women's track and field teams did very well under first year coach Al Hartman. The men posted a 4-4 record, while the woman broke .500 with a 3-2 final tally.

As is often the case in track and field, however, the story is in the accomplishments of individuals. Two Juniata athletes, junior Peggy Evans and sophomore Gino Perri, brought home fourth-place finishes and All-American honors from the NCAA Tournament. (See related story.)

Juniata records were falling all season long on both teams as sophomore Tom Cable broke the high jump record with a leap of 6 feet 4½ inches, freshman JoAnne Jackson broke the women's high jump record with a jump of 5 feet

4 inches, Peggy Evans broke the triple jump record with a jump of 37 feet 3½ inches, and Gino Perri broke his own javelin record with an NCAA tournament toss of 220 feet 5½ inches and also broke the shot put record with a put of 48 feet 11 inches. □

Three Honored

Juniata All-Americans

It is the goal of every college athlete — the coveted title All-American. Three Juniata athletes earned the title this year, two via the Juniata playing fields and one via combined superior achievements on the wrestling mats and in the classroom.

Junior Peggy Evans and sophomore Gino Perri concluded outstanding seasons in track and field by each coming home from the NCAA National Track and Field Tournament with fourth place finishes in their respective events.

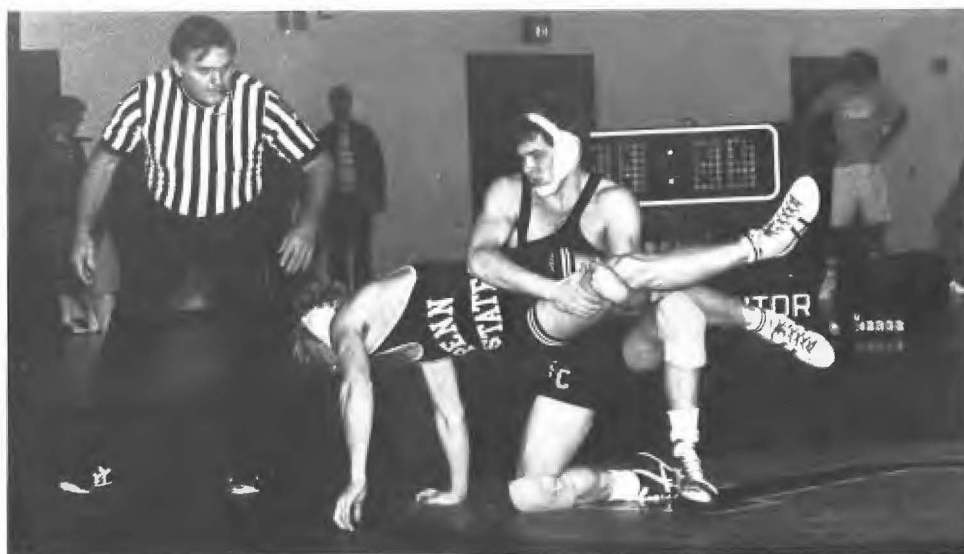

Junior grappler Rick Noll put together an outstanding season on the Indian wrestling mats while maintaining an academic record that earned him the title Academic All-American.

Noll, a 1981 graduate of Nazareth Senior High School, concluded this academic year with a cumulative grade point average of 3.50. He made the Dean's List in all three terms this year with grade point averages of 3.84 (fall), 3.78 (winter, wrestling season), and 3.61 (spring).

Wrestling at the 134 weight class, Noll concluded the 1983-84 season as Juniata's top wrestler with a 16-4 dual meet record. He finished fourth in the Lebanon Valley Invitational and wrestled in the semi-finals of the MAC Tournament.

Noll, who is majoring in pre-medicine at Juniata, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Noll of Georgetown Rd., Nazareth.

Junior Peggy Evans earned the title All-American with a fourth place finish in the triple jump competition at the NCAA Tournament.

The tournament was held May 21-26 at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. Evans qualified for the competition with a jump of 33 feet, 8½ inches at the Western Maryland Invitational on April 7. The minimum qualifying jump, as set by the NCAA, is 33 feet 2 inches.

Evans posted a new Juniata record in the preliminary round of the competition with a leap of 37 feet, 3½ inches. The effort lifted her to the top of the list of 59 other jumpers. However, in the process of establishing the new mark, she reinjured her foot which hampered her jumping ability through the remainder of the competition.

Evans joined five other top-six finishers competing in the event who were awarded All-American status. Her finish marked the first time a Juniata woman track and field participant has earned All-American status.

A 1981 graduate of Plum Senior High School, Evans is the daughter of Mary Ann Indovina of Glen Eagle Dr., Murrys ville.

Gino Perri, a sophomore at Juniata, earned a berth in the javelin throwing portion of the

All-American Peggy Evans

NCAA Tournament with a toss of 207 feet, 4 inches in a triangular meet with Messiah and York Colleges on April 27. The minimum qualifying throw set by the NCAA is 206 feet, 8 inches.

In earning the fourth place finish, Perri threw the spear 220 feet, 5 inches, setting a new Juniata record. Perri's finish marks the highest place an Indian male thinclad has placed in the national championship tournament. In 1978, Bob McNally earned a fifth-place finish for the previous best.

Perri, a 1982 graduate of

All-American Gino Perri

Montour Senior High School, is the son of Esther Perri of Kathleen Dr., McKees Rocks.

"We're all very proud of these fine and gifted athletes," said Juniata Athletic Director William Berrier. "Rick Noll's performance in wrestling and in the classroom is an indication of the high calibre students that we have at Juniata, and the successes of Peggy Evans and Gino Perri prove that Juniata athletes can compete with any Division III athlete in the country. Again, we are very proud of them." □

1984 Captains Picked by Indians

Members of the Juniata College football team and staff have selected senior Dave Murphy and junior Ron Fuchs as co-captains for the Indians' 1984 campaign.

Murphy, a standout receiver for the Tribe, is a 1981 graduate of Cumberland Valley High School, while Fuchs, a solid performer at offensive guard, is a product of Pittsburgh's Central Catholic.

In making the announcement, Head Coach Rob Ash said, "The squad did'a great job in selecting two players who will be excellent leaders both on and off the field.

"Dave Murphy is an outstanding choice because of his visibility, not just within the program but throughout the conference," Ash added. "Ron Fuchs, as a junior, has earned a lot of respect by being one of the most intense, competitive players on our squad. I think we have two young men who will set a fine example in their role as co-captains."

Murphy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Murphy of Springhouse Road, Camp Hill. The 6'2", 185 pound marketing and computer science major is a three-year letterman.

In his three year career at Juniata, Murphy has 108 receptions for 1,717 yards and 14 touchdowns. In the 1983 season he broke records for career receptions and career receiving yardage. In the previous year, Murphy established new marks for receptions (55) and yards gained (909) in a season.

"It's an honor and a privilege to have been selected as a co-captain," Murphy said. "We have the potential to put together a great year, and I'm going to do my best to make a valuable contribution to the success of our team in 1984."

Fuchs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fuchs of South Lang Ave., Pittsburgh. The 5'9", 190 pound sociology/education major is a two-year letter winner.

Fuchs said, "I'm honored to have been selected as a team captain. I think the role of the co-captains is very important both on and off the field as players look to us for leadership.

"I think that the 1984 Indians have a better attitude at this point in the year than any other team I've been a part of," Fuchs added. "We should have a great season."

The Juniata Indians, competing in the rugged Middle Atlantic Conference, will have a ten-game schedule in the upcoming season. □

Longtime Friend and Trustee

Mr. Rosenberger Eulogized

By W. Clemens Rosenberger '54

Lester Markley Rosenberger, a longtime friend and trustee emeritus of Juniata College, died at the Lankenau Hospital in Philadelphia, May 1, following a heart attack. He was 80.

Mr. Rosenberger enjoyed his association with Juniata, having been elected to the Board of Trustees in 1952 and serving as Vice Chairman in 1966. He maintained a concern for religious values in liberal higher education. Throughout nearly 30 years of faithful service to the college, he strived to maintain the character and quality of Juniata as a church-related institution.

In 1972, Lester Rosenberger was instrumental in directing a $1 million gift to the college from the estate of the late J. Omar Good of Philadelphia. A portion of this money was used to renovate the old Science Hall, which was renamed Good Hall. With the remaining funds, a J. Omar Good Distinguished Visiting Chair of Evangelical Christianity was established. Lester and his wife Pauline served as the original trustees of the chair. The total impact of the Good Chair cannot be easily measured, but a revitalized interest in the Christian faith seems to have developed both within the college community and the congregations of the Middle District of the Church of the Brethren and beyond.

Lester was a devout churchman, active in the Philadelphia First Church of the Brethren. He served the local congregation as a trustee, church school teacher and moderator. Lester acted as moderator of the North Atlantic District and as a member of the National Council of Men's Work. He was committed to numerous organizations and activities, and he served as a member of the board of the American Missionary Fellowship and the Peter Becker Community in Harleysville. His keen mind, his warm and jovial personality, his unwavering faith and his generous support of so many worthy causes will be greatly missed.

An important factor in the close relationship Lester enjoyed with Juniata was the lifelong friendship he held with President Emeritus Calvert N. Ellis. This friendship began in Philadelphia when Lester and Calvert were teen-age boys and during the time that Calvert's father, Dr. C. C. Ellis, was the minister of the Philadelphia First Church. The Ellis and Rosenberger families have nurtured a continuing friendship throughout the years.

Lester was born in Fox Chase, March 12, 1904, and attended Frankford High School. He graduated from the Philadelphia

College of Textiles and Science in 1925. Prior to Lester's graduation, his father died, and at age 21, he took over the family business, founded in 1889. He proudly wore the mantle of family headship until the day he died.

He was president of National Milling and Chemical Company from 1960-1981, when he retired. He built a solid reputation for his firm, broadening its markets and diversifying its products which served the textile, laundry, sanitary maintenance, steel and rubber industries. Far greater than Lester's passion for hard work was the unwavering integrity, honesty, dependability and fairness he brought to the market place as an expression of his faith and which earned him the deep love and respect of his business employees and associates.

Lester loved his work, which required the development of new products in the laboratory and selling them in a fiercely competitive market place. Often he would waken before dawn with a new formula idea or with a solution to a nagging problem. He was always ready for a new challenge, and he believed that every problem had a solution. Even into his 70's, he thought nothing of working a full day, which sometimes included driving himself to and from New York City, visiting nearly a dozen accounts all across Manhattan and then, finally, attending a trustee luncheon or dinner meeting.

But Lester also loved to play an occasional game of tennis or golf, especially during his younger years, and he will always be remembered as a fierce competitor in the pitch and putt tournaments at Eagles Mere in the summer and at Del Ray Beach, Florida, in the winter.

Lester Rosenberg has been called a man's man. He could be downright tough, demanding and critical on the one hand, but he could also be equally just, fair and tender-hearted on the other. He never asked anyone to do anything he himself was not willing to do. He was a "straight shooter," and everyone always knew exactly where he stood.

Lester had a few sayings worth quoting:

"There's no short-cut to success; hard work is the only way."

"Everything has a price; you must first count the cost, then decide whether or not to pay it!"

"Don't worry about getting a raise; figure out a way to make more money for the company, and the raise will take care of itself."

"A son should be a better man than his father."

Lester carried his religious faith into the dog-eat-dog, cutthroat market place. He believed his Christian principles would work there. Absolute honesty, dependability and fairness always prevailed. He stubbornly refused to open the company's display booth on Sundays at convention and trade fair exhibits. Sunday was the Lord's day, and he firmly believed that it should be kept for worship, rest and recreation, not work. When it came time to dispose of the company at his retirement, Lester was more concerned about finding a buyer who would protect the welfare of his employees than he was in the price he could get for the business.

In recognition of his outstanding achievement as an industrialist, churchman, supporter of higher education and friend of Juniata, the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, was conferred on him in 1972 by the trustees of Juniata College.

Surviving are his widow, Pauline Howe Rosenberg, two children, the Rev. W. Clemens Rosenberg '54 and the Rev. Nancy R. Faus Ex-'56; six grandchildren; a brother, Benton Rosenberg and a sister, Christine R. Connors.

A memorial Service was conducted May 6 at the Philadelphia First Church of the Brethren in Wyndmoor, which was attended by approximately 350 relatives and friends from business, church, college, seminary and neighboring communities, many of whom made contributions to Juniata College or to Bethany Theological Seminary.

No one was a more faithful householder, husband, father, business executive, churchman, trustee, counselor and friend. Because Lester Rosenberg blessed the lives of so many, we shall be the wiser and the richer. □
